

Artist of the Month—Kathy Hansen

I loved doing art from an early age and was fortunate to receive a fine art scholarship to Milwaukee-Downes Women's College, now Lawrence University. Upon graduation, I became a creative editor at Whitman Publishing Company in Racine, Wisconsin. My job entailed working with Disney and Hanna Barbera artists to plan and create coloring and activity books for children. I also edited boy/girl fiction and tested games that people sent to us. My first big creation was a Fred Flintstone coloring book based on Fred and Wilma's courtship!

I left this fantastic job to get married, settle down, and raise my six children. Now, after living in The Villages for over ten years, I keep busy with painting in watercolor and acrylics, and have developed a love for stained glass. How lucky are we artists to have all the opportunities handed to us in this wonderful place!
