

Artist of the Month—Lydia Falletti

My artistic talent developed at an early age. But as fate would have it I was pointed in a different direction. Instead of attending Art School, I attended The School of Fashion Design, which I do not regret. But advancing in art (since I am self taught) took the long way around and slowed the pace for me. I, however, continued to enjoy drawing, painting whenever I had the chance, between working and raising a family.

After many years I now have the time to continue to do what I love. Moving to The Villages has giving me the opportunity to grow and exhibit my works. I continue to challenge myself to paint many different subjects, in oils, acrylic, watercolor and other materials, be it realism, impressionism, or abstract. This is my world in art.

"May the sun rise each and every day to bring you joy to fill your heart with the boundless beauty of God's Creation."
